Tracks - Controller Support + Planes, Skydivers and Scuba Divers!

Banbury, Oxfordshire – 2nd August 2018

Excalibur Games today launched the latest update to popular sandbox title Tracks - The Train Set Game. As requested by the community, full controller support is now implemented, in addition to the introduction of more in-game objects that can be placed within the player's worlds. Check out the brand-new trailer here to see some of the new items in action. Developer Whoop Group have further updates planned to add more items and features in the coming months.

Controller Support

A major part of this update for Tracks - The Train Set Game is the implementation of controller support. Tracks is now compatible with official Xbox controllers as well as third-party products. This makes the game especially accessible to a younger audience.

New Items

Complementing the controller support functionality is the introduction of many new in-game items that players can use to create varied scenery in the worlds they have created. These include model planes, vans and other vehicles, all constructed with the same charm as existing objects. Furthermore, the developers have included rocks and a wider range of passengers, themed around various jobs.

There have also been many smaller scale tweaks and fixes under the hood that improve technical aspects of Tracks. Read more details in the Steam announcement.
